Investment Protection & Investor-State Dispute Resolution

Schellenberg
Wittmer

Practice Group

Our practice group advises investors and states on issues relating to the protection of foreign investment. We assist in effectively (re)structuring cross-border investments to maximize protection under existing bilateral or multilateral investment treaties. We also represent investors and states in investor-state disputes, from pre-arbitral steps to arbitral proceedings under various rules and applicable treaties, and in proceedings in relation to arbitral awards rendered in investment disputes before the Swiss Supreme Court.

Expertise

Schellenberg Wittmer takes care of its client's high-stake cross-border investment matters from the (re)structuring of cross border investments to the representation in investor-state arbitration as well as in setting-aside and revision proceedings against arbitral awards rendered in investment disputes before the Swiss Supreme Court. The following is a list of representative work.

- Advised foreign investors and states in designing negotiation and dispute settlement strategies;
- Advised foreign investors in setting up asset structures to maximize protection under existing bilateral or multilateral investment protection treaties;
- Advised foreign investors in restructuring assets to maximize protection under existing bilateral or multilateral investment protection treaties;
- Advised foreign investors in obtaining third-party funding in support of potential investor-state arbitration under ICSID and UNCITRAL rules;
- Advised foreign investors in preparing for investor-state arbitration, including by preparing case assessments and drafting notices of dispute;
- Represented foreign investors and states in numerous high-value international investment arbitrations;

- Represented foreign investor and states in numerous setting aside proceedings before the Swiss Supreme Court;
- Represented foreign investor and states in several (rare) revision proceedings before the Swiss Supreme Court.
